K. T. RED CROSS

SPIRIT OF ANCIENT SYMBOL CALLS KNIGHTS TO SERVICE

By Walt. Le Noir Church, Kt. R. C.

A simple newspaper item might be: "Last night, in Masonic Temple, Eminent Commander Clement L. V. Moore and associate Sir Knights, of Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, conferred upon Dr. R. V. Hogue the Ancient and Honorable Degree of the Red Cross, after which they and visiting Sir Knights spent a festal hour around their own hospitable round table."

But what has that to do with the Glendale Chapter of the American National Red Cross Society, over whose newly received charter more than a thousand Glendalians have been and still are jubilating? The paradoxical answer might be: "Nothing at all—and a great deal."

What is that order of the Red Cross last night so conferred? Let the spirit of the Red Cross answer for itself. It might well and truly say:

"Before Moses was—I am. Before the Pyramids of Egypt were dreamed, I had other temples on continents that are not. Before the Sphynx of the Nile whispered her voiceless riddle to a civilization already in its sere and yellow leaf, I had greater sphynxes in wider deserts, burying vaster, higher civilizations, and who has as silently asked: 'What is that which goes first on fours, then on twos, later on threes, and lastly again on fours?'

"When the compasses were alive; when the square, the level and the plumb line were embodied spiritual forces, building myriads of spiritual temples, the Wise Ones knew that 'without the shedding of blood,' physical, mental, spiritual blood, there could be no cessation of sins in mortal man, no salvation from himself. Therefore was I then, as now, blood red, a sign, a symbol, a prophesy and a promise—yet to be fulfilled. But even now the spirits of coming events cast their shadows before.

"Then was my meaning lost to too-material, too-busy knights who forgot their vows, omitted their duties, forfeited their priceless privileges, and were self-immolated on my altars.

"No mortal clinging to the horns of my altars can escape the sure and righteous results of his own deeds—or even of his wishes and ambitions. Mortals are made of their own dream-stuff. Therefore, am I still blood-red.

"In every soul, to every nation, to every civilization comes its crisis, its crucial season, its Red Cross test for depravity or exaltation. The test is on. This civilization is in the throes. The esoteric 'Rosicrucians,' mine ancient knights, have slept on sentry duty. When the clash and clamor came, they were unprepared for all the pomp and circumstance of war. They had dreamed dreams and seen visions not mine own. They had loitered and bowed before idols on their arduous long climb from savage to seer. They were not ready to meet the great need of humanity, and, behold! a physical Red Cross, born of necessity who ignores tradition, who makes and enforces her own law, fights the battle in front of her.

"But the time for recrudescence has come. The master knights of mine own ancient cult are again in the saddle. They are unmarked, unnoted by those who have eyes but see not or, hearing, do not understand.

"The tocsin has sounded. The clarion call has rung out. To all who are ready, the message comes: 'Now!'

"Let all my true knights, each in his own way, answer for himself and his great knightly brotherhood, and his greater brotherhood of man: 'Which is the stronger, wine, woman, or truth?'

"On his cross-hilt let him answer."

I. O. O. F. INSTALLATION

District Deputy Grand Master, Judge Roberts of San Fernando, was the installing officer at the installation of the recently elected officers of Glendale Lodge 338, I. O. O. F., at their hall, corner of Third and Isabel streets, Thursday evening. A number of out of town visitors were present and it is said by both members and visitors that the work had never put on in a finer manner than by the team of Thursday evening.

In the social hour that followed, E. J. Fish served a "Dutch lunch."

The following officers were installed for the ensuing year: N. G., C. R. Lund; V. G., R. Roberts; Rec. Sec., J. E. Horn; Fin. Sec., J. B. Fanset; Chaplain, J. M. Banker.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

MISS FERN PORTER HONORED ON EVE OF LEAVING LIBRARY STAFF

The resignation of Miss Fern Porter, who has been a regular member of the public library staff for the past year and a half, furnished the motif for the delightful little affair given at the home of Mrs. Danford on Thursday evening. Miss Porter has accepted a position with the Pacific Mutual in Los Angeles and will take up her new duties Monday next.

Her resignation is a matter of regret, not only to the library patrons but especially to those of the library staff, with whom she has been so closely associated.

Thursday being Miss Porter's birthday anniversary, the library force gathered at the home of Mrs. J. C. Danford, the librarian, and contrived a complete surprise for the unsuspecting Miss Porter. Yellow, the favorite color of the recipient of this surprise, was used in the decoration of the home, light refreshments were served and a beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented as a token of their regret at her departure. A gift aiso marked the birthday. Mrs. Danford was assisted by Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Shattuck. Those present were Miss Fern Porter, the honored guest, Miss Laura Roberts, Miss Marjorie Singleton, Miss Esther Grist, Miss Leone Shattuck, Mr. Clifford Riggs, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Shattuck and Mrs. Danford.

ANTI-ANNEXATIONISTS ORGANIZE

About fifty Tropico property owners of Tropico who are opposed to annexation with Los Angeles met in the store room at 127 South San Fernando Road Friday evening and formed an organization to be known as the Anti-Consolidation of Tropico and Los Angeles association. James Barnett was elected chairman, with William Peterson secretary and George Peterson treasurer of the association. This organization will take steps to oppose the annexation of Tropico to Los Angeles.

MORE SWIFT ACTION

Friday forenoon and this morning Mrs. A. M. Beamon in her auto, assisted by her son Charles, with Bill Redmond, James Frey, Raymond Frey, Marshal Spear and Horace Strickland, continued and completed the good job of delivering from house to house those circulars telling everybody to go to the Allies' Fiesta at La Ramada Park this afternoon and evening, to see demonstrated and learn the simplest and cheapest way to dry and preserve fruit and vegetables. Under Mrs. Beamon's generalship those good scouts are perfect little steam engines. They covered an amazing amount of ground and did it freely, nobly and well for the sake of our own boys "somewhere in France."

DELEGATION VISITS SOUTH PARK CHURCH

Thirty members of the Central Christian Church went in autos last night to help in a revival meeting at the South Park Church, Los Angeles. The meeting is just a few days old, but 41 splendid people have been added to the membership of the church. The Glendale folks reported a fine meeting last night.

DEATH OF FRANKLIN WILLIAMS

Franklin Williams, one of the leading violin virtuosos of this country and of Europe, passed away at his home, 131 West Eulalia street, Tropico, on July 16. He was a pupil of Prof. O. Sevik, the renowned teacher of the famous Kubelik, and had appeared in all the large cities of the old world as a master of the violin. Mr. Williams was born in Canada and was 28 years of age. He is mourned by his parents and a wife.

Services were held at the late home on the 18th, First Reader Killgore of the Glendale Christian Science church officiating. Scovern-Letton-Frey are in charge of the remains, which will later be shipped to Toronto for burial.

JAPANESE RANCHER KILLED

M. Kido, a wealthy Japanese rancher of Los Angeles, was killed Friday night on the San Fernando Road when, it is supposed, his horses ran away. The remains are at the Scovern-Letton-Frey Undertaking Company's parlors awaiting an inquest.

PREMIER LLOYD-GEORGE DECLARES U-BOATS MUST GO IF PERMANENT PEACE IS TO COME

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, July 21.—"Those in charge of German affairs have elected for war," said Lloyd-George in a speech answering Chancellor Michaelis' address to the Reichstag. "Junkers have thrown the old Chancellor in the waste basket along with his 'scrap of paper,' but it will not be long before the Junkers follow," he said. "The Chancellor held out no hope for Belgium, no mention was made of that country and it is the intention of the Allies that Belgium must be restored as a free and independent nation and her people not placed under a protectorate of any country." The Premier declared that if the U-boats were not eliminated Europe will again be plunged into a welter of blood some time after the present war has come to an end.

"CONTROLS" DESTROYED AIRMAN LANDS SAFELY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, July 21.—One of the most remarkable feats in the history of aviation was performed by a French flyer working with the American escadrille. This aviator ran into a German shell at a high altitude. His control wires were completely cut away; his levers were useless. Keeping his head, he cleverly manipulated the speed shifts of his engine to allow his machines to fall slowly in a circling motion. He landed in safety.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1917

HEAD OF FOREST SERVICE NOW IN FRANCE

Announcement of the arrival of Henry S. Graves, Chief of the U. S. Forest Service, in Paris has led the Department of Agriculture to explain that Mr. Graves has gone abroad to make arrangements for the forest work which the American army engineers will undertake in France in connection with the military operations of the allied forces.

Because of the opportunity for service by this country in woods work incidental to the war which the request of the British Government for the sending of forest regiments was believed to present, Mr. Graves has been granted leave of absence from his position as head of the Forest Service and has received a commission as Major in the Reserve Engineer Corps. He has not been assigned to any command, but is acting under instructions, it is stated, to proceed to France in order to learn on the ground in advance just what conditions will need to be met, what equipment will be called for, and how extensively the services of American lumbermen can be utilized to advantage. Meanwhile the recruiting of the regiment which has already been asked for is being pushed by the Forest Service and is said to be advancing rapidly.

One of the staff officers of the regiment, Capt. Barrington Moore, is with Mr. Graves for the purpose of arranging for its prompt assumption of the specific duties to which it will be assigned when it is landed in France. While organized on military lines, the work of the regiment will be industrial, not combatant. It will operate in the woods behind the armies, getting out timbers, ties, and lumber required for military purposes.

ELIMINATE GROUND SQUIRRELS

It is an expensive luxury for a farmer to keep ground squirrels. Every ground squirrel costs the farmer at least $1.50 annually. A single family of squirrels can destroy a quarter to half an acre of beans, sugar beets, barley or similar field crops. Similar damage to range and pasture grasses is fully as extensive. A way to poison ground squirrels without endangering livestock has been suggested to the Committee on Resources and Food Supplies by the University of California College of Agriculture. This plan is to poison grain according to any of the standard methods and then sow it with a broadcast seeder over ranges and pasture lands inhabited by squirrels at the rate of ten or fifteen pounds per acre. The squirrels find the individual kernels, but livestock cannot eat enough to be endangered. School children anxious to do their part in increasing the food supply, but not old enough for heavy work, can be of much service in country districts in helping toward the elimination of ground squirrels.

LOUISVILLE NOW CALLS VEGETABLE DOCTOR

The Louisville division of the National League for Women's Service, which is cooperating with the National Emergency Food Commission, of Washington, for more and better food gardens and in its canning campaign has engaged the services of a vegetable doctor, whose duty it is to prescribe for sick and ailing plants.

Miss Helen Fitz Randolph, of the league, announces that "the League has appointed a Vegetable Doctor," who makes professional calls on the sick and ailing plants, prescribes and helps in the treatment.

"Since vegetables obviously cannot be taken to the doctor we send the doctor to the vegetables. All amateur gardeners desiring this form of assistance communicate with the chairman of the Advisory Committee, and trips of inspection are made without cost.

"A form of telephone prescribing has also been put into effect by the Lexington division of our League, as one of the Professors of the Agricultural Experiment Station stays in his office an hour each day to answer emergency calls for information on the part of gardeners."

With a "vegetable doctor" and "telephone prescribing," Kentucky has adopted two innovations in advanced gardening cultivation that is sure to have a good effect upon healthy, flourishing gardens. From Washington the National Emergency Food Garden Commission is sending canning and drying manuals free to any who send a two cent stamp to pay the postage. They have been widely circulated throughout Kentucky and other states in cooperation with the National League for Women's Service.

THRIFT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

America will be the first nation in the world to rewrite her text books so that the children of this country will be taught thrift in the school room. According to an announcement made today by the Thrift Education committee of the National Education association, radical innovations in the America school curricula are about to take place.

The lives of James J. Hill, Marshall Field, John Wanamaker and other great American business men will be studied in the schools, and text books on arithmetic, history, English composition, domestic science and household ecomonics will be subject to radical changes. For the first time in the history of the world, thrift and personal efficiency will be given scientific consideration in the class room. Not the narrow thrift of mere money saving but the broader thrift of individual preparedness for practical life will be taught, declares the committee's statement.

This is the sweeping significance of the resolutions adopted by the National Council of Education at its meeting in Portland last week. The resolutions were written and presented by S. W. Straus of New York, President of the American Society for Thrift. They point out that on account of the war America must from now on eliminate waste of every character; that President Wilson's first message to the public after the declaration of war was on thrift; that the only way to safeguard the economic future of the nation is through a better understanding of thrift which can be made possible only through the school room and that at the forthcoming meeting of the Council of Education in Atlanta, Ga., the school organization will be expected to have before it a comprehensive plan for the practical study of thrift in the schools of America.

SELECTING SEED

The California farmer can raise far better seed for himself, for most crops, than he can buy, according to a report made to the Committee of Resources and Food Supply of the California State Council of Defense.

The California farmer is earning his best wages when he is selecting his seed, declares J. W. Gilmore, Professor of Engronomy in the University of California College of Agriculture. From his crop of beans, corn, sorghums, and potatoes, he should select the best plants and save their produce for seed. A little time devoted to this means an increase in next year's crop without a penny of additional expense.

It is doubly important this year for the California farmer to select his own seed, for seed is now scarce and high in price. The farmer who selects his own seed and repeats the process year after year increases his knowledge of what constitutes good seed and good crops, and harnesses up the powerful force of heredity to help cultivate his bank account.

THE PASSING OF ARCHIE MCCLELLAN

July 18th, at Brookline, Boston, Mass., a great man finished his work on this plane of endeavor, in this dream life, perhaps, then passed out to the wider task for which he was fitted by his faithful efficiency here. Perhaps many resident Christian Scientists would like to read the last letter, maybe, which he wrote to Glendale. It is one of the million kindly things which made so many million people love him.

"The Christian Science Journal, Christian Science Sentinel, Der Herold der Christian Science, The Christian Science Publishing Society, Falmouth and St. Paul streets, Boston, Massachusetts. Office of the Editor.

July 7, 1917.

Mr. Walt. Le Noir Church,
Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

My Dear Mr. Church:

I am taking the liberty of sending the card mailed to me under date of June 14, and the accompanying clipping, to the Hon. Eleanora Money Coutts, as I am sure she will be interested to have this personal word from the writer of the article which she so greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

ARCHIBALD McCLELLAN.

The clipping referred to was from the Christian Science Sentinel, May 26, 1917. It contained an appreciation of an article by the writer of this, entitled "The New Woman," which first appeared in the New Century, Boston, the organ of the Lyceum League of America, primarily organized by the Youth's Companion and then transferred to the writer and James H. Dunn of Boston about 1895. I had written "The New Woman" about the year previous. Judge Septimus J. Hanna and Camilla, his wife, were then editors of the Christian Science Journal, in which they republished "The New Woman" at the request of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, who said she could sign it without changing a word.

She had it republished as one of the few articles in Pulpit and Press. By mistake it was credited to "The Century Magazine, New York."

Mrs. Eddy had that first edition suppressed and sent me an autographic copy of the corrected edition, crediting the article to "The New Century, Boston," of which I was sole editor. Shortly after Archibald McClellan arrived in Boston and was busy as one of the Christian Science writers at Falmouth and St. Paul streets. I was referred by Judge Hanna to him to see if he could give me a clearer understanding of certain principles. During that first long talk he told me that "The Mother" had telegraphed him simply to "Come." That unreservedly he came at once, not knowing what he was to do, but resolved to dedicate his life to the Christian Science cause.

Note. The author of "The New Woman" also wrote "The Lamp," which was published that same year in the Christian Science Journal. It is an allegory which so greatly pleased Mrs. Eddy that she wrote me a letter of appreciation and sent me an autographic copy of her very profound book, "Christmas."

HOW'S YOURS?

"How's your motor car behaving?"

"Well," replied Mr. Chuggins, "the way it uses gasoline shows that while it may be weak in spots, its appetite is all right."

A TEN THOUSAND POUND PORTRAIT OF PRESIDENT WILSON

Ten thousand pounds for a modern portrait!

The hope of many Englishmen, moving in art circles, has been fulfilled. This hope was that the £10,000 Sargent portrait should be a portrait of President Wilson. To quote the opinion of the National Gallery of Ireland Board: "The greatest American President will be painted by the greatest American artist."

Even to-day, the era of high prices, £10,000 is a princely sum for a portrait, attained but by two or three artists. Only the appeal of the Red Cross could have invoked such a figure. Its conception was at Christie's one sunny May day in 1915, just after Sir Hugh Lane had sailed for America. All the week the famous auction rooms had been selling gifts for the Red Cross fund. Among the benefactions was a series of blank canvases upon which certain artists had promised to paint portraits, the sum obtained by the highest bid to go to the Red Cross, the purchaser to nominate the sitter. When Sargent's blank canvas was placed upon the rostrum the auctioneer announced that he had received a cable from Sir Hugh Lane offering £10,000.

Since that day there have been disputes and litigation about Lane's estate, chiefly pictures and objects of beauty and curiosity. On June 8, 1917, the morrow of the decision by the High Court that Sir Hugh Lane's potential portrait by Mr. Sargent belongs to the National Gallery of Ireland, that body announced that the sitter they had chosen was President Wilson.—The Omaha Excelsior.

LIFE—
Insurance vs. Death Insurance
Nearly all the insurance I sell is on the Endowment Plan, which protects against the old-age as well as the death hazard. While the extra cost for a long endowment is nominal, the benefits are greatly increased all along the line and when 60, 65 or 70 is reached the policy matures its face when an income is needed rather than protection.
If you should die soon you might leave your family in good shape financially, but what will be the condition if you live for 20 years?
Let me tell you more about our endowments.

ALLIES' FIESTA AFTER-THEATRE PARTIES

All you who go to see Douglas Fairbanks at the Palace Grand Theatre this afternoon and evening will be gainers if you note well on the screen what is said about the Allies' Fiesta at La Ramada Park, North Glendale, at end of the Pacific Electrict street car line.

The Palace Grand manager, Mr. Jensen, has kindly arranged the performances so that they begin at hours, both afternoon and evening, early enough to enjoy the play and then go out to be delighted by the treat of the season, the great Fiesta, in which all the twenty allies of our own country fighting this world war will be represented in some special, national way.

Jensen himself will come and bring an auto party. He has asked for "more tickets" to sell at the Palace Grand box office. Buy your Fiesta tickets when you buy your theatre tickets.

Think of the United States having twenty allies in such a war.

Try to realize just what that means. Twenty separate and distinct nations bound to us in war ties—the very strongest ties which can bind nations to a common purpose. You may not know even the names of them all. Go out to the Allies' Fiesta and see what nations are banded together with our own to save democracy to the world, to the United States itself, not merely for your children and grandchildren, but to you, personally. See their fair women, their quaint costumes, their interesting customs and their "good eats." You may not realize it, but right now, this very day, is being fought over again the old question of taxation without representation, the right of Americans, as well as of the oppressed peoples of other nations, to govern themselves. Are we asleep, that we do not realize the tremendous stakes for which our own soldier boys have left their homes and are already facing the world foe at the front "somewhere in France"? Alas, too many of them have already become victims to the fiendish greed and cruelty of the world foe. Yet, we, too many of us, seem to care not—to heed not the warning cry. Would that some clarion-voiced Patrick Henry could call to us, also: "Shall we lie supinely on our backs till our enemies have bound us hand and foot?" Glendalians, let us wake up!

Note. "Juliet, Arabella, Maria, Genevieve, will you go with me to the Allies' Fiesta International Dance at La Ramada Park this eve?"

"Why, yes, Romeo, I shall be delighted. We can make up an auto party after the Douglas is over."

AT NINETY SHOES HORSES

James Collins of Parnell, Mo., with happy relatives surrounding him, celebrated his ninetieth birthday. He had said for many years that if he ever lived to be ninety he would mark that event by going over to his old shop and shoeing a horse. He declared that however mean or ugly the animal might be, horse, mule or mustang, he would face the job. Sure enough, he put on his old working suit, which had been preserved as a relic, and went over to the old shop, just as a farmer led his horse in to be shod. The old man showed the vigor of youth and did the work in good time and did it well. It is invigorating to see the many women of threescore and ten or fourscore, or more, who can cook and sew and keep house and tend the flowers like a young person, and to see the old men with physical and mental powers preserved, who either go to a daily task or "tinker around" with a hammer or saw or ax, or work in the garden keeping company with the past and with those who have been translated, while they raise food for the living present. Mr. Collins' vigor at ninety is more than matched by this record of an active old man.—Selected.

HOW HE WAS IMPRESSED

"Was the sermon to-day to your liking, John?" inquired the pastor. "Indeed, sir, it was a grand sermon," said John with genuine admiration. "What part seemed to take hold of you?" "Well, now, since you ask me, I'll tell you. What took hold of me most was your perseverance—the way you went over the same thing again and again and again."

AS IN MUCH GREATER CASES

"Johnny, it is very wrong for you and the boy next door to fight."

"We couldn't help it, father."

"Could you not have settled your differences by a peaceful discussion of the matter, calling in assistance of unprejudiced opinion, if need be?"

"No, father. He was sure he could whip me and I was sure I could whip him, and there was only one way to find out."

YOUTHFUL FORESIGHT

One of the diminutive flower maidens at a school fete attended by the Queen Mother was both pretty and plump, and when Her Majesty stopped for an instant to smile down upon her, what did she do but put up her wee mouth for a kiss, which she received.

"Molly!" gasped her astounded mother, after the distinguished visitor had passed on. "How could you?"

Molly gave good reason. "I fought," said she, "it 'ud be interestin' to tell my gran'-children."—The Omaha Excelsior.

ALLIES' FIESTA

Mrs. Healy reports that Mrs. Hinshaw, the noted songbird of Los Angeles, will sing the British Recruiting Song at the Allies' Fiesta tonight. This will be a great card, since the British, the Canadian, the French and other Allies now have the right to recruit at our military stations, a privilege never granted to any foreign nation till lately. But now we all are allies and friends.

THE TRAIL

"When you say 'trail' to a Westerner his eye lights up. This is because it means something to him. To another it may mean something entirely different, for the word is of that rare and beautiful category which is at once of the widest significance and the most intimate privacy to him who utters it. To your mind leaps the picture of the dim forest aisles and the murmurings of tree-top breezes; to him comes the picture of the wide. dusty desert; to me, perhaps, a high wild country of wonder. To all of us it is the slender, unbroken, never-ending thread connecting experiences.

"For in a mysterious way, our trails never do end. They stop sometimes and wait patiently while we dive in and out of houses, but always when we are ready to go on they are ready too, and so we take up the journey placidly as though nothing had intervened. . . . You may camp, you may linger, but some time or other, sooner or later, you must go on, and when you do, then once again the trail takes up its continuity without reference to the muddied place you have tramped out in your indecision or indolence or obstinacy or necessity. It would be exceedingly curious to follow out in patience the chart of a man's going, tracing the pattern of his steps with all its windings of nursery, playground, boys afield, country, city, plain, forest, mountain, wilderness, home, always on and on into the higher country of responsibility. . . . Such a pattern would tell his story as do the tracks of a partridge on the snow.

"I should be interested to know whether others feel the same glamour that I do in the contemplation of such syllables as the Lo-Lo Trail, the Tunemah Trail, the Mono Trail, the Bright Angel Trail," writes Stewart Edward White in his book about the California mountains. "A certain elasticity of application, too, leaves room for more connotation. A trail may be almost anything. There are wagon-trails which the East would rank as macadam roads; horse-trails that would compare favorably with our bridle-paths; foot-trails in the fur country worn by constant use as smooth as so many garden walks. Then, again, there are other arrangements. I have heard a mule-driver overwhelmed with skeptical derision because he claimed to have upset but six times on a certain bit of trail not over five miles long; in the charts of the mountains are marked trails which are only 'ways through'—you will find few traces of predecessors. . . . And so after your experience has led you by the camp-fires of a thousand delights, and each of these camp-fires is on the trail which only pauses courteously for your stay and then leads on untiring into new mysteries forever, you come to love it as the donor of great joys. You, too, become a Westerner, and when somebody says 'trail,' your eye, too, lights up.

"The general impression of any trail is born rather of the little incidents than of the big happenings. . . . Most of all, naturally, the kind of country has to do with this generalized impression. Certain surprises of vistas looking out over unexpected spaces; little notches in the hills beyond which you gain to a placid far country sleeping under a warmer sun than your elevation permits; the delicious excitement of the moment when you approach the very knife-edge of the summit and wonder what lies beyond,—these are the things you remember. Your saddle is a point of vantage. By it you are elevated above the country; from it you see clearly. Quails scuttle away to the right and left, heads ducked low; grouse boom solemnly on the rigid limbs of pines; deer vanish through distant thickets to appear on yet more distant ridges, thence to gaze curiously, their great ears forward; across the canyon the bushes sway violently with the passage of a cinnamon bear—you see them all from your post of observation. You are always alert for these things; you are always bending from your saddle to examine the tracks and signs that continually offer themselves for your inspection and interpretation."—The Christian Science Monitor.

RELEASING GOLD

"Now," said the professor of chemistry, "under what combination is gold most quickly released?"

The student pondered a moment. "I know, sir," he answered. "Marriage."—Minneapolis Tribune.

The Oakland Tribune says it is a mighty easy thing to plant one's self in an easy chair and advise the farmers what to plant in the ground. It always is easy to tell the other fellow what to do, no matter whether he is planting potatoes or editing a newspaper.

SUNLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Fornie and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. John Wilde of San Francisco were calling on friends in Sunland Saturday.

Mr. Claude Huse, wife and children, Mrs. N. D. Huse of Los Angeles and Mr. Clarence Sidel of Phoenix, Ariz., were guests of Mrs. Geo. Huse Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Adams, Jr., motored to Riverside Sunday for a day's visit with Mrs. Adams' sitser, Mrs. Flory. Miss Lita Adams, who had been spending a week in Riverside, returned home with them.

Miss Menita Huse visited friends in Pasadena Sunday.

Miss Edna Cartier, assistant County Intermediate Superintendent of the County Union, visited the C. E. Society Sunday and gave a very interesting talk to the society.

The annual picnic of the Baptist Sunday School was this week Thursday. About forty attended. They went up the Tujunga Canyon as far as Bryant's Camp. The children enjoyed a day of climbing, wading and, last but not least, a bountiful picnic dinner.

Mrs. Capt. Cushman has for a week guest Mrs. Martin of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowley spent Monday in Los Angeles.

Mrs. McNab and Mrs. Allen Richardson spent Monday in Los Angeles at the Red Cross headquarters, taking lessons in knitting and sewing, in which they will instruct the chapter in Sunland which has established its headquarters in the corner building of the Rowley Block. Everybody is invited to join in this work, whether they are members or not.

One of the pleasant social events of the week was a picnic in Manzanita Park Thursday. The ladies of the Aid Society of Tujunga entertained the Ladies of the Sunland Aid Society at a well appointed chicken pie picnic dinner, with every dainty that goes to make up a good dinner. Fourteen of the Sunland society motored to the park, where they were met by about thirty ladies of the Tujunga society. The tables were beautifully decorated. A novel scheme for partners was given out, questions and answers from Bible verses, Tujunga ladies having the questions and finding the answers among the Sunland ladies, who would be their partners for dinner. After they were all seated at the table, Miss Atkinson, president of the Tujunga society, in well-chosen words greeted the Sunland society, which was responded to by Mrs. Lancaster, vice-president of the Sunland society. After leaving the dinner table we listened to readings and recitations by Miss Smilley and Mrs. Wieman. Then Miss Culver spoke on Red Cross work and the Hoover idea on the food question. Her talk showed study on these two subjects, which was very instructive. The ladies adjourned feeling glad for the opportunity of meeting with the Tujunga ladies in so pleasant a social way.

Arrangements have been made by the ladies of the Red Cross to have a speaker here Monday night to explain Red Cross work. Everybody invited. Monday, July 23, 7:30, in the Red Cross room at the corner of Flower and Center streets. No admission. Speaker, Mr. Benson.

The societies of Sunland, assisted by the Chamber of Commerce, will give a benefit for musical director, R. Walter Maygrove in the beautiful Monte Vista Park, July 26th. There will be a band concert by the valley band, refreshments will be served, also ice cream and cake. Everybody invited, especially Tujunga, San Fernando, La Crescenta and La Canada. Come and have a good social evening with us in the Park.

Mrs. Mattie B. Shaw is spending a few weeks at Santa Barbara, visiting friends.

Mrs. H. W. Reinstadler and children are camping under the oaks near Mrs. A. Shelley's, enjoying the lovely air of Sunland during their vacation.

Mrs. Ryan and children returned to their home in Los Angeles after a pleasant week of camp life in Sunland.

Mr. Alfred Adams, Sr., is improving rapidly from his recent sickness. He took a motor ride to Hollywood this week.

Sunday was a big day in the Park. The heat causes people to hunt the shade of the great oaks.

WOMAN SHERIFF'S HEROISM

Miss Constance Kopp, a girl deputy sheriff of Bergen County, New Jersey, was conducting Tony Hojnacka from the jail to the insane asylum when he tore away from her and plunged into the Hackensack River. Quick as a flash she dived into the icy waters of the river, rescued her charge and placed him in the safe care of the asylum. Hojnacka, who was pretty nearly drowned, was revived by physicians. Miss Kopp was put to bed in charge of a nurse, but went out a few hours later and attended to her duties as though nothing heroic had happened. She is made of good metal, and her heroism justifies her responsible position. As a rule, the home duties and the more feminine lines of employment are the more becoming to women.—Selected.
